So show your thanks and sign up for a Great Parade in our Nations Capital for those who gave a lot and those who gave their all!

News From The Blue Oval

Can NASCAR Accelerate Fusion Sales?

Ford hopes exposure will help pitch cars to racing fans, especially women!

BY SARAH A. WEBSTER
FREE PRESS BUSINESS WRITER

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. -- One of Ford Motor Co.'s hottest cars, the Ford Fusion, debuted on NASCAR's biggest stage Sunday.

And the Dearborn-based automaker is hoping that the old motor sports marketing adage -- win on Sunday, sell on Monday -- pays off after eight Fusions debuted in the Daytona 500.

The vehicle has already been a success since it went on sale last fall, with solid reviews on its bold design, quality and drivability -- crucial for an automaker needing a hit car as consumers shy away from trucks.

But with this kind of exposure -- the Elliott Sadler-driven Fusion finished fourth -- selling the Fusion might get even easier for dealers nationwide.

In conjunction with the NASCAR race Sunday, Ford also kicked off a humorous new advertising campaign for the Fusion.

Ford drivers joke in the commercials that driving a new Fusion can help cure overactive adrenaline disorder, a made-up ailment for people who like a rush of excitement. The ads mock today's diagnosis-crazed society, calling the illness "OAD."

Ford is hoping that the NASCAR marketing helps emphasize the brand's American appeal and also helps it connect with more women, Anne Stevens, chief operating officer of Ford's Americas division, said during a weekend trip with journalists in connection with the race.

"I believe that vehicles are very passionate, emotional extensions of ourselves," said Stevens, a lifelong racing fan who also is involved in promoting female racecar drivers. "Some people choose to just get in a car, put in a key and drive. For me, racing is a very passionate sport."

There's a stockpile of data that show NASCAR marketing generally pays off for automakers. About 54% of Ford buyers are racing fans, and they tend to be more loyal as a group than other Ford customers. And Monday sales, she said, do get a boost from a Sunday win.

But about half of the estimated 75 million NASCAR fans are now women, with the popularity of the sport soaring. The midsize sedan segment of the car market, in which the Fusion is situated, also is a popular one with women.

So, putting Fusion into the NASCAR series is a natural way to connect with the emotions of customers, including women increasingly attracted to racing, said Stevens, who is helping lead the charge to turn around Ford's North American operations, which posted a $1.6-billion loss last year. The company still posted an overall profit of $2 billion.

Fusion, and its connection to NASCAR, may play a key role in helping lift the company's futures, even though the racing and retail versions of the Fusion are quite different.

The NASCAR version is a purpose-built racecar, with an 800-horsepower V8 engine and rear-wheel drive, while the production Fusions use four- or six-cylinder engines and front-wheel drive. But getting consumers excited about the name can drive awareness and excitement, which can drive potential buyers into showrooms.

For now, the Fusion already seems to have hit a sweet spot in the market. After gas prices surged last summer, consumer taste started leaning toward cars over trucks, right as the Fusion hit the market.

Last month, consumers bought 9,999 Ford Fusions, a robust level that the company is hoping to grow even more. This month, to keep up with demand, Ford added a third shift at the Hermosillo, Mexico, plant where the Fusion and its sister vehicles, the Mercury Milan and Lincoln Zephyr, are also built on the same platform.

"Fusion is one of the hottest cars out there right now," Stevens said. The NASCAR Fusion replaces the NASCAR Taurus, which was launched in 1998 and had a successful career with more than 100 race wins, three drivers championships and three manufacturers championship. Production of the Taurus is slated to end later this year.

Development of the NASCAR Fusion was a group effort that began in 2004 and was led by Ford's NASCAR field manager, former Roush Racing crew chief Ben Leslie, head aerodynamicist Bernie Marcus and Ford body specialist Jerry Painter.

Because the Fusion's distinct three-bar grille would have been difficult to simulate with the needed air-flow openings to cool the engine at race speeds on the Nextel Cup Fusion, Ford used a combination of photographic decals and specially prepared and colored duct tape to maintain the car's visual identity, while still allowing teams flexibility for air flow. Four Fusions finished in the top 10 in last Sunday's Budweiser Shootout. On Thursday, the Fusions raced in both Gatorade Duel 150 qualifying races, which set the final starting lineup for the Daytona 500.

Dan Davis, director of Ford racing technology, went into Sunday's race with solid expectations for the Fusion's performance. He said the Fusion had good odds of winning.

"We have better than a 50-50 chance," he said.

While none of the eight Fusions won the race, three of them finished in the top 10.

General Motors Corp. was the top winner, though, with Jimmie Johnson and his Chevrolet Monte Carlo finishing first.

CVMC to host Ford Fun Weekend!

By Dave Dickey
MCA Regional Director

In the December 2005 issue of Mustang Times, "from the driver's seat" an editorial by Bill Johnson (MCA Past President) talked about several new initiatives he has been assigned by MCA President, Arley Whitsell. One of these initiatives discussed is how MCA should or could have displays at shows such as Fun, Ford events.

In early February I got a call from Arley wanting to know if CVMC was interested in hosting Fun Ford Weekend (FFW) at Virginia Motorsports Park, near Petersburg, VA. We discussed a few things & Arley told me he had attended a FFW event that was well attended, run very smoothly & talked with the organizer Bill Alexander. I told him I would have to discuss this with CVMC's new president, Board of Directors, & others familiar with the drag strip. Arley said this was a new endeavor for MCA & he would like to have an answer by February 9th.

After discussions with CVMC officers & other club members familiar with the drag strip, there were some questions about what our club support would entail. I called Arley with the questions CVMC needed answered before the officers would commit the club. Arley emailed the answers to our questions and forwarded most of the email conversations between the Bill Alexander (FFW), Austin Craig (MCA chairman of the Publishing Committee), & Bill Johnson. Gordon then emailed Arley that CVMC will be MCA's host club for the FFW on June 24th and 25th.

As MCA's host club for the Ford Fun Weekend event the following are benefits for CVMC:

- 1. We will receive $1.00 for every car registered which is normally FFW offers a local Club for its assistance.*
- 2. CVMC will be listed in Mustang Times & other publications as the host club for this event. This will* give us some additional free publicity & recognition in the Richmond metro area & within the Mustang community.

- 3. There will be no charge for registered club workers.*
- 4. $10.00 discount off Car Show entry for non working club members, however you must identify yourself as a Central Virginia Mustang Club member & register in advance with the FFW office. We will supply their office with a club roster. It is important that CVMC members wanting to participate @ the FFW event join or renew their dues early to be listed in our roster. FFW will NOT be able to offer a discount @ the gate.*
- 5. CVMC will be reporting directly to FFW & MCA officials. There will be an MCA representative (possible Arley since he lives in Springfield, Va.) or Mo Mozeleski (Fredericksburg, VA) & Mo who has attended our shows.*
- 6. If our insurance company requires additional insurance, the additional requirement will be provided by MCA.*

FFW does all the registration & collection of fees, establishing car classes for the "static" Show component, designing of & purchasing trophies. CVMC will be required to:

- 1. Promote & advertise the FFW event & Show in our local area & on our website.*
- 2. Have an MCA membership tent setup.*
- 3. Provide 6 show workers for each day of the Show. There will be a worker signup sheet at the meeting.*
- 4. Set up the "static" Show field - all show workers must meet with* FFW officials sometime in the near future.

5. Tech Inspection & park the "static" Show cars on Saturday & Sunday.
6. Count the popular (or participants) votes for the Saturday Show.
7. Work with FFW judges to judge the cars for Sunday's Show.
8. Possibly present the Awards on Saturday & Sunday.

In the past FFW has used Modern Mustang of North America (not affiliated with MCA), which Bill Alexander said "are very nice folks & do a really good job". This is a chance for us to show FFW & MCA there is another Mustang club that can do a really fantastic job.

I am trying to get a list of all MCA members that are members of CVMC. Please let me know who are MCA members or if you would like to join, I will have MCA applications @ the meeting.

Remember to get your Hotel reservations early for any MCA show you plan on attending.

News From The Car Club Council of Central Virginia

By Fred Fann

What happened in the General Assembly that is of concern to car hobbyists? It's an easy question to answer - everything got killed or carried over to the 2007 session. HB 288 that would have altered the antique vehicle registrations has been carried over to 2007. One license plate was killed; exhaust bills were killed, the kit car/replica car title bill was killed, bill to repeal the radar detector ban was killed - they all were killed. A photo red bill is still alive at the time of this writing but is in a House committee and I doubt it will make it. A bill to end emissions inspections for vehicles 4 years old or younger has made it through the Senate and I expect it to pass the House. This is good common sense as seldom do any newer model vehicles fail emissions.

We need to come up with a better proposal to stop any misuse of antique license plates than limiting occasional pleasure driving to 50 miles from home and have vehicles registered as antiques go through a yearly state inspection. These are the best ideas from the agencies sending information to the House Transportation Committee members. We can and will do better - the Virginia Association of Car Councils will meet in March and come up with a hobbyist friendly proposal - and one that will actually work.

Let's face the facts about exhaust bills. They will never pass as long as they mention a certain decibel number. The police are going to keep saying they need money to buy sound testing equipment and the members of the Assembly are going to keep saying no to spending money for the equipment. And yes I know there are laws against loud stereo systems and laws against disturbing the peace that do not mention decibels - but look - they've got to have a way to kill exhaust and muffler bills and this is it.

If Virginia went to one license plate on the rear of all vehicles it would save a couple of million dollars in the first two years. This will never happen because the police say they need two plates to catch the bad guys. And yes I heard a delegate say the police need that front plate to combat terrorism.

Who pushed for the kit car/replica title bill? I don't know if anyone did. It was stricken from the docket.

Yes Virginia, you are the only state in the United States with a ban on radar detectors. Don't you feel proud of yourself?

Once again the State of Virginia has decided that motorcycle riders must continue to wear helmets. The failure of this bill and some other happenings in the Assembly indicate that we citizens of Virginia do not have the right to live our lives as we see fit. And this is a strong reason why many car hobbyist related bills got killed.

Dave's Mustang Trivia

3. How much did the Mustang cost in 1971?

Rick's Tip's

*The Shelby Convention
June 30th to July 2nd, 2006*

The Shelby American Automobile Club is having its 2006 Convention at the Virginia International Raceway in Danville, Virginia. Danville is approximately 4 hours southwest of Richmond. This is the closest road course to Richmond and is the closest the Shelby Convention has ever been to Richmond. Those of you who have wanted to be on an actual road course, this is it.

Race groups are set up from novice to the Vintage Race crowd with groups in between. Everyone is welcome to drive their car on the track as long as it is FORD powered. There are also parade laps during the lunch breaks and all years of cars are accepted. Early registration is encouraged. I will have copies of the Convention Schedule at our club's next meeting or you can call me and I will send you the information to you.

Here is an interesting note on road courses. Curved public roads are engineered to allow an auto to take the curve as easily as possible. Road courses are the opposite. The curves are engineered to be the most difficult to take, more on the conventions later.
